Numbers Guy

Financial Avenger

Xceed Financial Credit Union

numbersguy@xfcu.org

Numbers Guy swooped in and joined Xceed Financial Credit Union in 2008 as the organization's "Financial Avenger." He is responsible for guiding Xceed members through their financial challenges at every stage of their lives and has been charged with leading Xceed into the future. Numbers Guy watches over every member, account, and loan on a celestial basis.

Numbers Guy brings more than 20 years of superhero experience to the credit union. Before joining Xceed, he fought against evil and economic distress throughout the world. Then in early 2008, he made the decision to dedicate his amazing superpowers to a single, vital cause: personal financial stability.

Xceed's Financial Avenger was discovered during an open audition where XFCU President and Chief Executive, Teresa Freeborn, was searching for the perfect superhero to represent the credit union. After interviewing hundreds of candidates who couldn't stand up to Xceed's exacting standards, Freeborn knew she'd found the right caped crusader for the job the moment Numbers Guy flew into the room. The rest is history.

Known for his red cape and Xceed logo emblazoned across his chest, Numbers Guy is always there for our members when they need him.

Numbers Guy currently splits his time between El Segundo, California, and Rochester, New York. He enjoys flying, martial arts, and crunching numbers with his Abacus of Steel.
